

ELIGIBLE AND INELIGIBLE CENSUS TRACTS

List of Census Tracts in Metropolitan and Non metropolitan Areas Which Are Eligible and Ineligible as “Rural” Pursuant to Health and Safety Code Section 50199.21

Effective January 1, 2005

This list contains information on census tracts in metropolitan counties, which are eligible as “rural” as defined in Health and Safety Code Section 50199.21. There is a separate list of non-metropolitan counties.

The listed ineligible census tracts are ineligible or partially ineligible for one of two reasons: they are either in whole or in part:

1. Tracts in urbanized areas, as designated by the U.S. Census Bureau, or
2. Other tracts in cities of more than 40,000 population and adjoining unincorporated areas.

Tracts on the edges of the above areas often extend into rural areas, and any portions of such tracts which are defined as rural eligible by Rural Housing Service (RHS - formerly FmHA) are eligible as rural under Section 50199.21. Tracts which are partially rural based on RHS boundary lines are marked with asterisks, as follows:

- * A portion of the tract is or may be RHS eligible. (In some cases, all of the tract may be eligible.)

Sites in tracts marked with asterisks are to be considered rural only if RHS considers the sites to be rural.

“Eligible tracts” which are not marked with asterisks are eligible without regard to RHS eligibility. Because RHS’ population cut-off is lower than in Section 50199.21, many of these tracts are RHS ineligible.

In the following list, only a positive or negative list is given for each county; that is, either all eligible tracts are listed, or all ineligible tracts are listed. In some counties, only the ineligible (including partially ineligible) tracts are listed. In other counties, such as Los Angeles and San Mateo, which have a large number of tracts but, by comparison, relatively few eligible tracts, only the eligible or partially eligible tracts are listed. All other tracts are ineligible.

In all cases, the census tract numbers in the lists are the census tract numbers at the time of the 2000 U.S. Census. Populations are based on the most recent data from the State Department of Finance.

Key: Tract number with no asterisk: if listed in the “Ineligible” column, the entire tract is ineligible, if listed in the “Eligible” column, the entire tract is eligible without regard to RHS eligibility as rural.

Tract number with asterisk(s): any portion of the tract which is RHS eligible as rural is eligible; the balance is not. 1/2005
